Baltimore says: End the blockade on Cuba! Pass the resolution!

Baltimore City Hall

Since 2019, over 40 city and state governments, union labor councils, and school boards have passed resolutions condemning the decades-old U.S. embargo on Cuba. Baltimore City activists, many of whom have visited Cuba, have also been asking the Baltimore City Council to pass the same resolution.

After almost a year of requests, meetings, and follow-up phone calls without positive movement, the Baltimore Cuba Resolution Committee has decided to take their campaign to the public. The end of the embargo would yield not only a variety of incredible benefits to the United States, but also for Baltimore City specifically. But more importantly, the embargo creates a humanitarian crisis for the people of Cuba.
