

Struggle-La-Lucha.org

Watch: End the U.S. blockade of Cuba rally in Washington, July 25

written by Melinda Butterfield

July 31, 2021

Struggle-La Lucha's Cheryl LaBash, co-chair of the National Network On Cuba, welcomes people to the rally. SLL photos: Andre Powell

On July 25, a welcome rally was held for Cuban American "Miami to D.C." walkers calling for an end to the U.S. blockade of Cuba.

Carlos Lazo, a Cuban American teacher and Iraq war veteran, has been on a 1,300-mile pilgrimage — with six other Cuban Americans—all the way from Miami. He arrived in Washington, D.C., to present the Biden administration with a petition signed by over 25,000 people calling for an end to the U.S. blockade of Cuba, and demanding:

- the end of all sanctions
- restoration of remittances
- resumption of flights from the U.S., not only to Havana but to all the regional centers of Cuba
- reopening of the U.S. Embassy in Havana
- a restart to the program of family reunification

More than 400 supporters of Cuba turned out at Lafayette Park in front of the White House to greet Lazo's group and support his project of building bridges of solidarity between people in Cuba and the U.S.

Join the call to end the U.S. blockade now!

SLL video: Raskia Ruwanpathirana

<https://www.struggle-la-lucha.org/2021/07/31/watch-end-the-u-s-blockade-of-cuba-rally-in-washington-july-25/>